Re: Mr Emad Alghamdi, Letter of Appreciation

To whom it may concern

Mr Emad Alghamdi had a four-month internship with the Melbourne Data Analytics Platform. During this time, he was tasked with performing sentiment analysis on texts related to sustainable energy. Emad identified and implemented innovative machine learning approaches, including weak supervision.

Our team was very impressed with how fast Emad integrated into the working dynamics of the projects and the maturity he demonstrated in dealing with multiple stakeholders in a warm and professional manner throughout this internship. His expert technical skills, reliable nature and consistent work ethic made him a joy to work with. His contribution to sentiment analysis that has the potential to shape sustainable energy policy has been of the highest quality, extremely valuable and highly appreciated.

We highly commend his contribution to the team and wish him all the very best for his future.

Yours faithfully,

Prof. Andrew Turpin, BCom BSc(Hons) PhD
Director, Melbourne Data Analytics Platform
